AT&T Remote Monitor manufactured by Xanboo is an easy-to-install remote monitoring service, designed to keep you in touch with the things that are important to you. Users can view live video, monitor doors and windows, control lights, check their home's temperature, and much more from a secure, private website anytime using a Web-enabled Cingular Wireless phone or PC. The system also utilizes state of the art Power Line modules to transmit the live video over existing power lines, thus eliminating the need for wires.

Who Cares: Parents, business owners and travelers who want to make sure their home and office are safe and secure.

Why Bother: This system offers peace-of-mind by providing the user with full access monitoring and controlling of the home and office via their mobile phone or PC.
